

Roof Garden

After the purchase of this loft apartment in a favored area of Cannes – Le Cannet – located on a sloping site above the Old Town, the dreary roof area was remodeled into an attractive garden retreat. The division of the surface opens up to make the most of stunning views across the bay and also protects users against curious glances from neighbors and from above. Palm, olive, and lemon trees, bougainvillea and jasmine make the garden more private and gives the outside living space a special flair. The materials used in the design – stone, wood and glass – create an interesting interplay with the plants and the element water. A water wall with basin, tailor-made plant pots and furnishings, as well as a special lighting concept create a special atmosphere and give this unique roof landscape above the bay its own intimate character and charm.
